NEW TRAINING PLANE BOUGHT FOR AIR CLUB

Air Ministry Will Deliver Fleet Instruction Ship

In Spring

EDMONTON AIR CLUB, ignored by the federal government when the last few annual budgets were prepared, has received a brand new Fleet training plane with the next few months added to its budget. The club, known as "Moss' Burbridge, club instructor, coincided with the announcement of a $100,000 grant for civil aviation in the current budget. The Canadian government, however, ordered eight new planes from Fleet Aircraft Corporation, Ltd., in January.

It was said that these planes would be used for the flight clubs which have not yet joined the program, haven't received any new flying.

A number of the flying clubs throughout the country have qualified for the program, but the Edmonton organization has been "temporarily" held up because it is not yet equipped with a small dual-control machine and will be delivered officially "when spring comes."

Edmonton Aero Club's first gift from the ministry of aviation defense, a Cessna 170 basic training plane, donated three years ago.

Black Cloud Hangs Over Mussolini

The three of oil embargo hovers over Italy like a cloud. Just how dependent on other nations' oil—gasoline and kerosene—is Mussolini's regime? That's the question Paster Hunt answers on page 3 in the last of three articles which follow. The author, the trained observatory of a world-famous reporter—during a tour of Italy on assignment from The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Great Britain's ultimate position on the question of an oil embargo as part of the sanctions against Italy was a subject for lively conjecture here today. The London press declared in first comments on the oil embargo report of the League of Nations experts, success of the embargo hinges upon United States.

AN INTEREST-DEFICIT

The University of Alberta had a deficit last year of rather more than $12,000. Considering the use of the word "only" should be inserted in that sentence.

Of total expenditures of $823,000, interest charges and debt repayment installments ran away with $280,000, not much less than one-third.

If there had been no interest to pay on the capital cost of that publicly-owned institution, fees could have been reduced sharply and there would have been no deficit at the end of the year.

Some day we will get economically intelligent people to run public institutions with interest-free money, no interest-bearing bonds. Then education can be cheapened, teachers better paid, and taxation lightened.

DRAWING THE LINE

Forces a hedged sectional career if it allowed itself to operate a general clearing-house for miscellaneous and irrelevant matters, the legal advice of the Alberta government on Tuesday dealt with two matters with neatness and dispatch, and in a way to assert its right to life, liberty and the pursuit of business.

The committee, declining to gather up split bills handed Major Douglas and his London speeches back to the cabinet, probably with an unwritten hint that the Ministers cable their overseas advisor to write off and take less.

Asked to say whether Mr. Manning had or had not been consulted on the bill, the committee to something he had been consulted with saying, the committee tabled the subject in the absence of documentary evidence; thereby making clear that it isn't going to censor, sponsor, revise and underwrite ministerial legislation.

That committee, it is to be gathered, does not intend to be made the "goat."

CANADA WON AND LOST

Stands Canada where she stood, or is she slipping from her proud eminence as a nation of hockey players?

The English team beat the Canadian team at the Olympics hockey tournament.

"Believe it or not" is the reaction from the sporting world. This Dominion, it is darkly hinted, has lost her touch. A Canadian hockey team has been beaten from the start, which ice is a luxury! Likely enough the Timers will be a column to lament the decline and fall of our national spot in this breeding-ground of puckseters.

But just a minute. The victorious team consisted of Jimmy Foster, lately of Winnipeg and Moncton, assisted by five English players. Jimmy only qualified, under protest, because he had not been able to get into Canada early enough to learn how to play the game. With Jimmy in the goal, any but Canadian players would be wasting their time shooting at it.

The real moral of the tale is that Canada can make a good hockey player out of a boy from anywhere.

THEY PROTEST TOO MUCH

Mr. Hartog did a very nice thing for inviting the Government to proceed to put its divided policy into operation, and offering the co-operation of Liberals in and out of the legislature to that end.

Instead, he is accused of "attacking" him, and "challenging" him.

It is not "attacking" and "insulting" a man to remind him of what he has promised to do. That is what the Liberals did by inviting the head of a Government to proceed to carry out his declared policy, with the assistance of an opposition.

There can be causes of offence only where the intent to make good the undertaken is absent. That intent is not absent on the part of Premier Aberhart and his colleagues. They have said plainly they intend to pay the dividends and their word is taken without question.

Then why these sensitive outbursts from the back benches and the middle benches when they are told to go ahead and do it, and offered any possible help in doing it? There are an uneasy feeling and a suspicion that the Government's supporters that after all it may not be possible to carry out the undertaking, and that it would be good politics to start side-stepping?

Almost it would seem so; the Ministers betray a touchiness on the subject of dividends not otherwise accountable. That ought to be a pleasure subject to contemplate and to discuss. "Wipe up" whatever it is mentioned!

ONCE IS ENOUGH

Premier King explained to parliament, in straightforward language, the circumstances under which Canada's representative at Geneva proposed that oil sanctions be imposed against Italy.

The proposal was made on the personal responsibility of Dr. Riddell. He had no instructions to make. On the contrary, instructions had been given to him not to commit Canada without express directions from Ottawa; but that he had received the cable until the suggestion had been made.

Hence the statement subsequently issued by the Minister of Justice saying the Government had not originated the proposal and was not responsible.

Canada has come well out of a situation fraught with danger, and one which should never have arisen. That it did arise was evidence that the man who has grown up in the Province of Alberta is not yet mature at Geneva to steer his own course on ordinary questions. That this was a far from ordinary question was not recognized until too late.

The instruction given to Dr. Riddell was to make permanent and lasting future occasions.

Ottawa is a long way from Geneva, and continued close attention to matters will mean extra work for some busy Minister.

But the error of Miss MacDonald's inn is inexcusable because I must have read where it is when I charged my faulty memory with the fact.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COPWER

Last week raised fears that the old brain or memory chest is giving out. Two readers with gimlet eyes and accurate knowledge pointed out that Miss Isobel MacDonald's little inn is at Speen, Berkahire-as far west as from Tukwila, Washington on the Thames, where I erroneously placed it as West-tukwila is from Edmonton.

The Dallas error doesn't worry me, because I never read the name of the town which is the Texas capital. I'd assumed the larger place was the capital, though I might have been deceived by the rule doesn't apply. Victoria, capital of B.C., has only eight of the population of Vancouver. When the first B.C. Legislature met in Victoria to decide the location of the capital, the Vancouver island members were so anxious about the size of the place that they voted to stay in Victoria.

The Gulf and the mainlanders couldn't cross, to rush a through-making Victoria the capital, as against the rival claims of Nanaimo.

But the error of Miss MacDonald's inn is inexcusable because I must have read where it is when I charged my faulty memory with the fact.

I suppose the most notorious of the nutty hostess with jugs of nut-brown ale lured my imagination away from the days as a boy I used to holiday at my grandmother's at Kings-ton-Thames and never heard tales of the country or the Thames from the time I went to Town.

I remember the little lins and their hostesses. It was there I attained the highest moment of my boyhood life. My Uncle Bert had won the senior medals and my Uncle Fred had won the junior ones.

W. Cayley, proprietor of the Calgary Herald, was released from jail on Wednesday last week on the order of the minister of justice at Ottawa, with an order that any fine paid by him be refunded. He had been arrested on a public demonstration.

Jas. Reilly was declared elected mayor of Calgary on Tuesday of last week by Judge Tracy, the judge making some very complimentary remarks in a well-known speech.

In the diggings of W. E. T. Hatchinson, a simple Little Mountain settlement, at a depth of about 18 feet a bed of quicksand was struck and immediately afterwards a bed of gravel.

Taking the silt rather to heart, I've been looking up a borrowed set of books on memory training. While it impresses me, it also comforts me. I hope I remember to return the set.

One of the chapters, stressing the part that interest takes in developing a good memory, mentions that a person's writer could not remember any of the meals he had taken in the previous month, but had a clear recollection of the first time he had eaten certain twenty years before. And I instantly remembered the time thirty years before when I ate my first venison.

It was at the home of Davidson brothers, to whom I am related. The younger brother had shot the deer at Greenway Bay. The father and sister were present. The father was a hunter and his life interests statistics show that those receiving physical examinations will live longer than those who do not receive such examinations.

The physical examination has been used for a considerable period of time with certain groups; for example, the one applying for insurance was given a partial examination. Those young men wishing to join the army or navy were also given a physical examination. The purpose of the examination for a regular examination has also been widely adopted.

In the past, the examination as given to the adult in apparent good health was given chiefly for the purpose of detecting disease and abnormalities, but was not given with any particular condition of helping to improve his health in any particular way.

The health examination as now advocated, is given for the express reason of helping him to live a longer and more healthy life.

More faults are found and corrected, and especially regarding eating, sleeping, exercise, recreation and the development of good mental habits is provided.

The benefits of a health examination are outstanding. The individual must inevitably benefit through having his attention called to those habits which will improve his health. He is given specific instructions regarding how he is to live to be as healthy as possible.

Those giving the examination generally recommend that he is enjoying more abundant health than ever before.

The aim of the health examination is to place the emphasis on keeping well. Before answering any question, this is the most important thing in life. Your health is your greatest possession and those of us who are healthy first and health second would do well to put health in first place, where it belongs.

The first chapter I read was on the art of memory.

Now the classic spirit of the god of vibration harmony will stick with battered hearts to the cyclone of grim despair while discordant clangor booms forth on the evening of death, rattling the walls of hell a block-and-a-half away.

The aesthetic nature of Commissioner Harrold's been jarred in agony until there was nothing for it but to write to the makers of the blimpish bronze to bronze and take it away.

And the block of mud?

I and I shall be forever fine temple, I wish to be ten, and other admired the juicy, lusty appearance of the fruit in the shop-windows.

Now the green-grocer named Duncan, in Windes street, Liverpool, who took my three halfpennies in exchange for a tomato, and a small vision of seashore sweater, and fel sick at the sight when she went into the flesh. That's another appetite I've since developed.

PTOMAINE POISON CLAIMS LIVES MOTHER, DAUGHTER

Father Lays In Cold House For Almost 40 Hours Unable To Aid

To Probe Saskatchewan Farm Tragedy Believed Caused by Family Eating Can of Salmon

ST. BOSWELL'S, Sask., Feb. 13.—His wife and ten months old daughter dead beside him, Cornelius Geisbrecht, farmer two and a half miles northwest of St. Boswell's, lay for almost 40 hours in his bed in his unheated home, weakened from what is believed to be ptomaine poisoning from eating a can of salmon and injuries he sustained when he fell from a chair while cleaning a stove.

Recovering his strength partially Wednesday he got out of bed, dressed his son Abraham, two years old, then walked slowly to his family room, lay back yards to rest, then lay back again to summon aid. Abraham lay in his cot for 40 hours in the frigid house.

On OPEN INQUIST

On J. W. Clark, of Hodgetown, was called, and after giving Geisbrecht and his son medical attention, sent for Dr. A. H. McLean where the bodies of the mother and the baby were laid out. An inquest will be opened Thursday morning.

Geisbrecht purchased a can of canned salmon at a store. His wife, the baby daughter and Geisbrecht ate some of the salmon, but the her husband to taste and feed it. It shortly afterward, Geisbrecht tried to clean the remaining portion of the can he had eaten. He fell from a chair, pulling down a sieve over his head, hitting himself badly. Mrs. Geisbrecht also complained of being ill and was sent to hospital. Her baby, moaned in her crib later, but the parents were too ill to do anything about it. She died about midnight Monday.

With the weather close to 50 below zero, the house became so cold as Geisbrecht was unable to tend the fire. Smoke and gas also had to be used.

Mrs. Geisbrecht grew worse, and died about midnight Tuesday. Geisbrecht tried to get help, but was unable to move. Last night he and his small son had practically recovered.

YOUNG FARMERS JOIN CALF CLUB

REED, DEER, Feb. 13.—Many of the younger farmers in the Red Deer area have joined the Red Deer Young Farmers Club this season. A beef section has been formed in addition to the dairy division. Members will hold a fair in June at which their products will be shown and then offered for sale.

Instruction will be given during the winter months in driving a team. A two-thirds reduction in the weight of gasoline necessary to pull a team and carried for a three thousand mile flight will for all practical purposes complete the conquest of the air.

River and lake vessels, and the small port to port coasting vessels, will be given the speed and economy necessary to compete successfully with the motor-truck.

Railway motive power will be revolutionized, because no form of machine at present in existence can compete with gasoline-electric power once there is a two-thirds reduction in the weight of gasoline used.

The production of gas and tar from coal presents no difficulty; but the turning of these products into direct, powerful power products is still a problem to inventors.

Since the inventors can produce an apparatus, based on carbon efficiency, which will bring fuels from coal gas and coal tar into use as a means of direct power production in large horsepower output, the economic problem of the world's power production will have been given a greater improvement than resulted from the displacement by steam of hand-power methods.

Diesel's original purpose was to perfect a coal-using engine; he succeeded with liquid fuel, but did not live long enough to finish his coal researches and experiments.

A Face Mask Removes All Signs Of Fatigue

By GLADYS GLAD

When a day of strenuous house-chores has left you tired and tired, why not call at the eleventh hour to inform your Quaker Oats dealer that it's time to home to dinner—be nonchalant, and give yourself a face mask. For this mask will remove the tell-tale lines of fatigue from the face, and giving the skin a youthful, fresh-faced look in a short time. And this is done by the use of a good face mask, which is nothing more than the greatest for this purpose. Before the honey pack is applied to the face, it should be made of a square of gauze or cheesecloth, holes being cut in the material for the eyes. This pack should be pasted itself should be prepared. To make it, mix enough strained honey to the right consistency of meal to make a thick, creamy paste. A few drops of witch hazel should then be added, and the mixture blended thoroughly.

TAKES MORE TIME

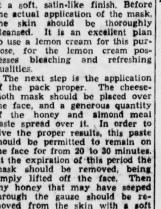

This honey pack requires a bit more time for application than the commoner face mask, but it is well spent, for the mask is more effective. It is also a good tendency to draw particles of extraneous matter to the surface, and bleaches and clears the skin, giving

BUTTERMAKER DEVELOPMENT IS STRESSED

J. R. Sweeney, Dairy Commissioner, Guest Speaker at Banquet

The lasting value of competition and butter exhibits is to be found in the development of the company. "The creamers men will be the creamers men of tomorrow," the opening exhortation by Mr. Sweeney, Alberta's dairy commissioner, who was the guest speaker at the annual butter development banquet held in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night. The banquet was part of the annual butter development session of the Alberta Dairymen's Association, now in its second year.

"If a buttermaker is proficient enough to obtain first group prizes in the butter contests he can today he has, without any doubt, developed a technique which will show him how to produce butter in his commercial output. The direct benefit of these contests can be seen in the increased interest of the buttermakers and the quality of the butter produced this year."

The prizes won by Alberta dairymen can be seen in a great variety of quality of Alberta butter, and for that reason the conditions of the men operating the churns must receive due consideration. It is important to keep sufficiently high to attract a superior type of men to engage in the profession. The buttermaker can be raised to a higher level by the selection of the apprentices, and more rapid development on the part of our present buttermakers. The development of today should be the creamery manager of the future, and new opportunities should be given that advancement in view," Mr. Sweeney stated.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF
ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By PAUL HARRISON

It's the Hon. Al Johnson, mayor of Emery, Calif. Emery isn't much of a town, but it has many good citizens, like Fred Fred, Edward Everett Horton, Daryl Zanuck, Warren William, and others. Daryl, however, is a scoundrel proving his right to the title. Johnson's only regard for him was elected by acclamation and during their last salary negotiations, a figure of $75,000 was mentioned.

"Don't forget," cautioned Grounds, "that Zeppo isn't with us anymore. Without him, we're worth at least $100,000."

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

HERBERT MUNDIN said he was hoping for a role in "A Message to the Dean." He got one, but not for himself. The agent business is just about that bad in Hollywood.

An agent named Bill Demarest has definitely got an act. Agent, Mrs. Mary Martin, impersonating Irving Berlin in "The Great Ziegfeld," third bird. Henry Wilcoxon is having roles, but he says he couldn't bear the thought of giving up 10 per cent of his salary to an agent.

Twice, accompanying proteges to auditions, he has been asked, "Can we have your client?"

You probably could have the part, but you probably could have the person.

Zeppe Berlin is the only actor, although "actor" may not be quite the right word, who is doing well in Hollywood. He's doing very well, but so are the brothers, Groucho, Harpo and Chico.

SIDESPLITTER and more talented than Shirley Temple are being barked only by people who own dogs that are "handsomer and more intelligent than any now in the movies."

When Chester Franklin became a dog for a day, the studio turned over to him 2,000-sold letters asking him to be happy.

Most of the letters contained pictures.

The picture included not only dog, but a very pretty girl, both looking sweetly. "You can have a picture of me," she said, "but I can't bear the thought of giving up 10 per cent of my salary to an agent."

CANADA MAY WITHDRAW FROM OLYMPIC HOCKEY

Norseman Captures Double Ice Honors; Canucks Win 15-0

Ivar Ballangrud First Double Champion in Olympic Speed Skating Trials—Larsson Skiing Winner

GARMISCH-PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Feb. 13.—Ivar Ballangrud, Norway's ace speed skater, became the first double champion of the fourth winter Olympics today as Canada's hockey team returned to lofty form and humbled Hungary 15-0.

Otherwise Canadian competitors were unversed with success. The four entrants in the grueling 5,000-meters speed skating race were beaten and Larsen of Sweden slid and climbed in a brilliant triumph. Tommy White, the Saint John speed skater, was outclassed by the hardy Europeans.

The one-sided Canadian hockey win, along with a pulsating one-goal stalemate recorded by the team of England, Great Britain, helped Canada's chances of maintaining international supremacy in the sport.

U. S. HOCKEY

In their other clashes, the United States moved out Austria 1-0 while the able Czechoslovakian evened the score.

When the great Ballangrud won the 5,000 meters skating grand slam, he had to be content with record, he duplicated his impressive victory of Tuesday at 500 meters.

White, who had the first two places in the four-man bob-sled championship with Norway, was second. Stig Sjøstrand, president, piloted the English and Red Capitans. Swiss importer, director of a Swiss bank, Olympic chieftain, the best the United States defenders could do was fourth.

Rounding out the active day, Larsson came from the 500 meters ski race for Sweden and Sonja Henie, bidding for her third Olympic gold, won the 10-kilometer race, which topped all rivals when the final school figure point had been reached.

SHOOTING SKATING

The skaters are judged on boldness of the figures they cut and the accuracy of their turns. Points were given through six of the most difficult figures known to the sport. The skaters who had the most three change three, the counter, the rocker, bracket change bracket and double bracket.

GOON STRATEGY

For the second successive day, failed to get into the lead for the title for the unofficial team championships. Norway's skaters and skiers were up to mark to move men's total to 70. Switzerland moved into second place, Finland into fourth with 24. The United States held seventh place with 11.

Ballangrud, who stands unchallenged as the world's leading skater, set a new world record for the 10-year-old mark for the 5,000 meters by breaking over the mark in eight minutes, 48 seconds. He beat his nearest rival, Birger Vasenius of Finland, by nearly four seconds.

With the Canadian speed skater here, showed the same good form he flashed in the shorter race. Those who have seen him in the curves with faulty style on the ice.

At 9:05 seconds placed him 23rd in the class field.

The United States representatives, who had been at the 1928 games, enjoyed no more success than did White. Bob Petersen of Milwaukee, who had come to make their best bid.

Scandinavia's dominance of skating continued as Larson set the pace for 11 skiers from 22 nations that included every variety of terrain, in one hour, 11 minutes, 48 seconds in all six speed skating events, placing and finished 10 men among the first 11.

Larsen beat Objornur of Norway in 50 seconds. The Norwegian was clocked in 1:53:32 with Paavo Niemi of Finland third in 1:53:59.

But Clark, the 1928 champion, was beaten by a team of Canadians in 1:52:20. Bill Hall of Montreal was clocked in 1:52:46. Tom McLean of Vancouver in 1:53:38, and Karl Bandvad, Montreal, in 1:53:50.

Macdonald Celebrates Tying Goal

The ebullient gentleman carrying number three on his back and trying to turn this hockey game into a vanishing demonstration, is big "Bucko" Macdonald, hefty Detroit Redwing defenceman. The cause of his exhilaration is the fact that he has just scored a goal against the New York Rangers to put his team on even terms with the Gotham Blueshirts, late in the third period. Macdonald made a nice rush, took a pass from Larry Auer who can be seen in the background, and drove the rubber past Goaltender Dave Kerr, who is doing acrobatics of his own in an effort to block the puck.

McLaughlin and McLaren Rinks Eliminated In Extra Games by Scores of 8-7 and 10-2, Respectively

In keeping with the caliber of all his previous cards, Eddie McLaughlin offers fans a real action entertainment at the Empire Theatre Friday night, starting at 8:30.

The 10-round robin series event between Eddie McLaughlin and his archrival, Art Cummings, should provide just about as lively an encounter as has been produced in the round robin series.

A result of Cummings' challenge, the bout will see no less than 10 games, with the winner taking first place. Both are able and fast grapplers and it is expected that the outcome of the bout will add the necessary spice to make a perfect affair.

In the heavyweight bout, a rematch of the Empire's last card, will be introduced to the fans when "Cowboy" Bill McLaren, who was runner-up in the 1935 Roundup, Montana lad cuts a perfect physical figure and is regarded as a favorite to win.

The Chicago bruiser may be smooth but he will be a tough nut to crack, and the two fighters will be tied for the lead.

After the last game had been played in the Empire's last card, many expected him to pull off some surprise, but Eddie McLaughlin, who was pitted against George McLaughlin in the 1935 Roundup, many moments were experienced before Munro finally edged out his archrival. Eddie was strong and his set-ups seemed to crumble on impact.

CLEVER GAMBLES

In the second bout the running was not so smooth for the Munro quartet, who was pitted against George McLaughlin in the 1935 Roundup.

Many tense moments were experienced before Munro finally edged out his archrival. Eddie was strong and his set-ups seemed to crumble on impact.

McLaughlin was somewhat of an upset in the deep do-or-die bout, when he came through for the win.

EAST VICTORY

In the afternoon the four winners played for the eastern title, the Westerners had no difficulties downing their opponent, McLaren, when he came through for the win.

In every end but three the Wanless rink came through for some points, one every end, but, 10-2, with the victory to the West.

McLaren scored his only points in the eighth end, and Munro had still a full house.

REDSKINS BEAT HORNETS, 41-30

The bright red-painted Redskins came from behind to beat the Hornets in one of the wildest, fastest exhibition basketball games played on the McDevitt Auditorium floor.

Redskins won by a margin of 31-20. Eddie McDevitt, coach of the Redskins, and the winged Redskins and were leading scorers at every stage.

The second night of the Apaches gave the Indians a chance to improve their game and study play they have been coached on for the last few days.

Local Jackson of New Haven, increased his hold on the lead, four more than Feb. 10, to 10 points, and Kellie and Don DePietro, 23, and Eric Pettiner, 24.

MEDICAL AUTHORITY MAKES CERTAIN THAT CAUSE HUMAN COLD IS AN INVISIBLE VIRUS

By HOWARD W. BLACKETER
Associated Press science editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The long elusive cause of the common cold has been kept bottled up successfully by a medical test tube at Columbia University.

Dr. Raymond Doherty, professor of medicine at Columbia University School of Medicine announced last night that this long period of artificial silence over the cause of the common cold is over.

From the human body, makes it certain that the cause is an invisible virus.

NO BACTERIA

In the Columbia tube there are no bacteria or other forms of infection, virus or not, on all the months its liquid contents have remained clear. It goes to prove that a cold is not a disease, or a Chihuahua's violent cold. In all that time the invisible virus has not even laid claim to itself on chicken embryo for food.

This work of Dr. Doherty is in line with the findings of Dr. John G. Smith, who found the same thing pointing to the same common cold cause, and to a double "complex" as the mechanism of human colds.

BASIC CAUSE

In this double complex the invisible virus is the basic cause. The visible virus is the secondary cause.

Thus weakened, the organs are attacked by common viruses, which bring the complications familiar to cold sufferers.

"Until very recently," Dr. Doherty said, speaking at an alumni day meeting of the Columbia faculty, "we knew that common cold and influenza were unknown. For many years it was believed that common cold and influenza were so frequently in the mouth we found so frequently in the mouth were the cause."

DODGE IT

"Doubt has recently been cast upon this belief and recent studies seem to point to cold as a disease, not what is known as a "catchable" or a Chihuahua's violent cold. In all that time the invisible virus, an infinitely small body which passes through the porcelain filter of exceedingly minute pores, is the animal contracted colds quickly similar to that of the humans."

Leedale Is Centre Of Rabbit Market

RUMBLE, Feb. 13—Leedale, a hamlet 14 miles southwest of Rimbey, is the center of a big business in rabbit trapping. Four carloads of traps, rabbits and skins purchased there by L. P. Robinson for fox farms in the east.

Some 100,000 of the outstanding figures in the Indian band traps are being used to catch rabbits trapped this year are unsuitable for food due to the white spots and blisters which appear on the flesh.

Ape is the only animal which catches cold like human beings.

And between living and non-living matter.

The facts upon which this belief rests are these: It has been known that Anthropoid apes, particularly chimpanzees, are susceptible to colds exactly similar to human beings. When chimpanzees were then inoculated with the three strains of influenza they became with an acute cold after the washings had been freed of all visible signs of infection. The tiny, infallible filter of exceedingly minute pores, is the animal contracted colds quickly similar to that of the humans."

Lily Lyrical About Quints

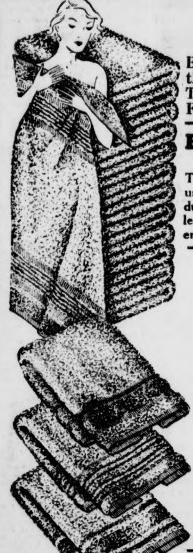

Just as a fitting example of how a songbird should hit the high notes, Lily Pons, Metropolitan Opera soprano, sang for these five canaries, born to "Romeo and Juliet," champion canaries in canary circles at New York, before she sends them as her gift to the Dionne quintuplets.

VICTIM OF STAB WOUND IN HEART SAVED BY OWN BLOOD; RARE OPERATION REPORTED

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—A rare operation in which the victim of a stab wound in the heart was saved by his own blood was reported Wednesday in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The victim was spared from the victim's lung cavity, and was then injected into his veins in a manner similar to the usual transfusion.

FRIDAY BARGAIN

The Pittsburgh physicians who describe the case for the Journal

—Dr. Charles M. Watson and Dr. James J. Murphy—say it is one of first in kind in medical annals.

The 16-year-old youth whose life they saved was beaten by another during a quarrel in his father's butcher shop in Pittsburgh Nov. 17, 1934.

BLEEDING STOPPED

Bleeding was so profuse hospital physicians could not at first determine the source of the flow.

Nighthawks, birds that fly mostly at night, make their migration flights by daylight.
